OF M'KINLEY AND ROOSEVELT

If it were possible for the original of this picture to speak to the voters of the nation this day, and to give his honest verdict respecting William Jennings Bryan and Adlai Stevenson, the editor of the News Review believes he would say about the following:

"William Jennings Bryan embodies in his person and actions and sayings all of the evil and disloyal characteristics of Clement L. Vallandingham. whom I was compelled, by a strict sense of justice, to send through the lines to his southern friends and coworkers; and the same sense of just tice would compel me, were I on earth today and in possession of the requisite power, to send Bryan to the Philippines and compel him to join Aguinaldo and his host of assassins and cutthroats, more familiarly known as bolo men.

"As for Adlai Stevenson, a former member of the Knights of the Golden Circle, an organization despised by all true men and soldiers, from northland or from southland, he is simply an object of contempt, a fit running mate for the demagogue and traitor he is associated with. I would not disgrace the party of Stephen A. Douglass by terming this delectable couple as Democrats; they are simply freaks of fortune, forced upon the nation, as curses some times are. They will pass away as do the mists and be as soon forgotten, none being so poor as to desire to do them honor.

"If permitted to live, McKinley and Roosevelt will be elected by a strong electoral majority on the 6th day of November, 1900. I beg the great republic's pardon for mentioning these latter heroes and statesmen in the same breath with such creatures as Bryan and Stevenson.

"I am very glad to note the wonderful strides, in the way of progress and prosperity, that the nation over which I once held sway, by the grace of the common people, has made. If true to the right, and obedient to the will of the Great Commander, the United States, now in her swaddling clothes, a mere babe, is destined to take her place as the leader in the world's civilization and salvation."

Governor Bob Taylor, of Tennessee, Captured His Hearers And Held Them With Him.

The opening night of the series of the high school entertainments was a flattering success from every standpoint. An immense audience was present, the seating capacity being unequal to the demand. Bob Taylor made a mistake in the time and was half an hour late. Prof. Rayman introduced him in a neat little speech, stating that "Mr. Taylor has made a mistake respecting our time, and has not been able to don his dress suit. He believes that you will not care particularly about his dress, as you will be more interested in his address."

We shall not attempt to give a description in full of this entertainment. As Governor Bob Taylor said: "It was sentiment and fiddle and bow mixed." The word painting of the garden of Eden, as existing before sin entered, was simply exquisite. Later on in the mixed talk, pathos and fun, laughter and tears followed so closely upon one another's footsteps as to keep the audience closely attentive, in order that the happy hits should not escape appreciation. The old colored nurse's lullaby was a gem of the first water, while the delineation of the old plantation darkey's escapades, 'possum hunts and hoedowns was rich and true to nature. The apostrophe to the violin and fiddle were beauties deduced from Governor Bob's heart, as he is a great lover and admirer of this class of melody, and no mean performer on the instrument in question. The advice of the speaker as to the love and care which should be extended to the babies and children of the true home, with a full share for the patient and loving wife and mother, found an echo in the heart of every genuine man and woman in the audience. Governor Bob Taylor, of Tennessee, in this beautiful southland of the great and glorious republic, is a brick; yea, verily, a whole brick block; and he made a host of friends and admirers in this pottery center through the instrumentality of his superb word painting. Long may he

COON HUNTERS.

Two Well Known Attorneys Are Deeply in Love With Coon Hunting.

One of the said disciples of Blackstone resides in the classic shades of the town of Rogers, while the other is a rising young limb of the law of East Liverpool. To hear them describe a coon hunt, and judge the same from their standpoint, you would fall deeply in love with the fun and avail yourself of the first opportunity to take a jaunt over hill and dale in the light of the moon, accompanied by the "very best coon dogs that ever gave mouth," covering about "steen" miles in pursuit of the "corn robber," keeping up the chase until the wee, small hours of the morning, tumbling over fallen trees, stumps, boulders and other hindrances, and occasionally taking a header into an unseen cavern or miniature valley, winding up the fun by having the happiness of seeing a plump, fat coon tumble out of a tall tree, shaken from his perch by the most daring climber in the party, while the eager dogs played havoc with his coonship as he did royal battle for his life, finally succumbing to superior numbers and weight. And then you would go home, after your initiatory hunt, about the most tired, sore and hungry hunter in all that neck of woods, vowing vengeance, deep and bitter, on the fellows who had induced you to indulge in such "infernal nonsense;" and, after getting fully rested and the soreness having disappeared, you would finally consent to another hunt, catch the "coon fever," and soon become as crazy on the subject as are the two limbs of the law above designated, but not named. The Rogers limb of the law had a circus all to himself not long since, on one of his coon hunting expeditions. He had his brother's good coat on at the time; but he had the fever on him in full force, and could not keep away from the enchantment. In some unexpected manner he struck a skunk instead of a coon, received a full benefit in the shape of eu de cologne and otter of roses, and that best coat had to be buried in Mother Earth for three months, and afterward blow with the breezes for an additional six We lead; let those who can follow

READ THESE THREE.

Two Have Been Presidents of the United States, And One Would Like to Be.

Read the following very carefully. They will give you a true conception of the utter foolishness and recklessness of William Jennings Bryan, judged from the standpoint of industrial welfare and a true financial policy:

HARRISON.

"His (Mr. Bryan's) election would, I think, throw governmental and business affairs into confusion. We should not aid the election of a president who would, admittedly, if he could, destroy the gold standard and other things that we value even more, upon the deceptive suggestion that he has been bound, and that the Republican party will, after defeat, still have strength enough to save the temple. It will be much better not to allow the man with destructive tendencies to lean against its pillars."

CLEVELAND.

"If reckless discontent and wild experiment should sweep our currency from its safe support the most defenceless of all who suffer in that time of distress and national discredit will be the poor, as they reckon the loss in their support, and the laborer and workingman, as he sees the money he has received for his toil shrink and shrivel in his hand when he tenders it for the necessities to supply his humble home."

BRYAN.

"If there is any one who believes the gold standard is a good thing, or that it must be maintained, I warn him not to cast his vote for me, because I promise him it will not be maintained in this country longer than I am able to get rid of it."-William Jennings Bryan, Knoxville, Tenn., Sept. 16, 1896.

"The party stands where it did in 1896 on the money question."-William Jennings Bryan, Zanesville, O., Sept. 4, 1900.

As Mr. Harrison so aptly and fittingly says: "We should not aid the election of a president who would. admittedly, if he could, destroy the gold standard and other things that we value even more." And this is what William Jennings Bryan admits that he would do. Columbiana county and East Liverpool voters will not aid Mr. Bryan in so doing. This section should give an overwhelming majority in favor of McKinley and Roosevelt and the entire Republican

Woman's Horror

Modest women dread to consult a doctor about diseases peculiar to their sex. They have a horror of private examinations and surgical operations. For this reason treatment of dangerous derangements is neglected. But the Wine of Cardui treatment, which can be adopted at home without the knowledge of any one but the patient herself, is now coming into general use. Women who take Wine of Cardui do not have to submit to a physician's local examination nor to a surgical operation. Wine of Cardui cures in the privacy of the home. No publicity, no cutting and torture and no physician or examination, while Wine of Cardui is quietly building up and strengthening the female organs. Menstruation is regulated, the drains of leucorrhoea stopped and the fallen womb restored to its place. The terrible pains which rack the body are but results of the ailments, which yield so readily to the soothing properties of Wine of Charles The medicine that cured Miss Garlen win tainly help you.

Rockford, Tenn., Aug. 16, 1899.

I have suffered from womb trouble for five years. Last spring a year ago I was bedfast for six months. I paid $52 to one doctor, and he said he had done all he could for me. I had about given up, but called another doctor, who said I would have to have surgical treatment. I decided I might as well die a natural death as that. I happened to get the hold of a Ladies' Birthday Almanac, and decided to try your treatment. In nine days after I commenced taking Wine of Cardui and Black-Draught I could walk across my room, and in three weeks I made myself a dress. This was after my neighbors, and even my brothers and sisters, said I would never be any better. I am now in good health.

COON HUNTERS.

Two Well Known Attorneys Are Deeply in Love With Coon Hunting.

One of the said disciples of Black stone resides in the classic shades of the town of Rogers, while the other is a rising young limb of the law of East Liverpool. To hear them describe a coon hunt, and judge the same from their standpoint, you would fall deeply in love with the fun and avail yourself of the first opportunity to take a jaunt over hill and dale in the light of the moon, accompanied by the "very best coon dogs that ever gave mouth," covering about "steen" miles in pursuit of the "corn robber," keeping up the chase until the wee small hours of the morning, tumbling over fallen trees, stumps, boulders and other hindrances, and occasionally taking a header into an unseen cavern or miniature valley, winding up the fun by having the happiness of seeing a plump, fat*coon tumble out of a tall tree, shaken from his perch by the most daring climber in the party, while the eager dogs played havoc with his coonship as he did royal battle for his life, finally succumbing to superior numbers and weight. And then you would go home, after your initiatory hunt, about the most tired, sore and hungry hunter in all that neck of woods, vowing vengeance, deep and bitter, on the fellows who had induced you to indulge in such "infernal nonsense;" and, after getting fully rested and the soreness having disappeared, you would finally consent to another hunt, catch the "coon fever," and soon become as crazy on the subject as are the two limbs of the law above designated, but not named.

The Rogers limb of the law had a circus all to himself not long since, on one of his coon hunting expeditions. He had his brother's good coat on at the time; but he had the fever on him in full force, and could not keep away from the enchantment. In some unexpected manner he struck a skunk instead of a coon, received a full benefit in the shape of eu de cologne and otter of roses, and that best coat had to be buried in Mother Earth for three months, and afterward blow

READ THESE THREE.

Two Have Been Presidents of the United States, And One Would Like to Be.

Read the following very carefully. They will give you a true conception of the utter foolishness and recklessness of William Jennings Bryan, judged from the standpoint of industrial welfare and a true financial policy:

HARRISON.

"His (Mr. Bryan's) election would, I think, throw governmental and business affairs into confusion. We should not aid the election of a president who would, admittedly, if he could, destroy the gold standard and other things that we value even more, upon the deceptive suggestion that he has been bound, and that the Republican party will, after defeat, still have strength enough to save the temple. It will be much better not to allow the man with destructive tendencies to lean against its pillars."

CLEVELAND.

"If reckless discontent and wild experiment should sweep our currency from its safe support the most defenceless of all who suffer in that time of distress and national discredit will be the poor, as they reckon the loss in their support, and the laborer and workingman, as he sees the money he has received for his toil shrink and shrivel in his hand when he tenders it for the necessities to supply his humble home."

BRYAN.

"If there is any one who believes the gold standard is a good thing, or that it must be maintained, I warn him not to cast his vote for me, because I promise him it will not be maintained in this country longer than I am able to get rid of it."-William Jennings Bryan, Knoxville, Tenn., Sept. 16, 1896.

"The party stands where it did in 1896 on the money question."-William Jennings Bryan, Zanesville, O., Sept. 4, 1900.

As Mr. Harrison so aptly and fittingly says: "We should not aid the election of a president who would, admittedly, if he could, destroy the gold standard and other things that we value even more." And this is what William Jennings Bryan admits that he would do. Columbiana county and East Liverpool voters will not aid Mr. Bryan in so doing. This morning's session was opened promptly at 9 o'clock, the devotional exercises being in charge of Rev. J. A. Platts, of Mingo.

"Sabbath Symposium" was Loly discussed by Rev. S. L. Boston, of Steubenville, and to better cover the subject several other ministers were called upon for a short resume of different department of Sabbath work.

Rev. McIlvaine, of Toronto, made a brief address and was followed by Rev. Platts, who spoke on "How to Observe the First Day of the Week."

He had been selected for that subject for the reason, as he stated, he had been reared under the Jewish dispensation, and his father had preached the observance of the seventh day in the week as Sabbath. The ...k was an interesting one and was listened to with close attention.

J. G. Grabiel, of Dennison, was called upon to say a few words on 'Some of the Perils of the Sabbath." In the opinion of the speaker the American saloon was the greatest peril to the Sabbath; next to it was the Sunday excursion and sunday re-

TWO SPEECHES.

The Campaign in Hancock County is Proving a Very Warm One.

Hon. S. P. Taylor, of Ohio, will on Thursday evening deliver a Republican address at the Allison school house, south of this place, and from the amount of booming the affair is receiving, a large attendance will be present.

George D. augram is announced for a speech in the public square on Friday evening. The young attorney is well known in Chester and his abilirecognized that the success of the meeting is assured.

Politics is warming up in this locality and from this time to election day little else will be discussed.

TO INCORPORATE.

Chester Residents Will Send a Petitio to West Virginia Legislature.

Chester now has a population of over 600 and when the legislature convenes this fall one of the first matters they will have to consider will be a petition from the residents of that place asking that the village be incorporated.

All this has caused the usual amount of speculation relative to who will compose the officers of the municipality.

Justice Wash Johnson has a large number of friends who would be glad to confer the honor of being the first mayor upon him.

The justice at present resides out of town, but it is said he is making preparations to move to Chester.

Pupils Have Left.

About half of the scholars in the Chester schools have left the institution on account of the scarlet fever Dr. J. M. Watt, T. C. Weir, Margaret scare, and the presence of a case of in the family of Frank Huff, Sr., has greatly added to the alarm.

> The probabilities are if any more contagion appears the schools will be closed.

Services Over Remains of Sherman, In Washington.

TOMORROW AT MANSFILLD, O.

Mrs. Grant, Mrs. Sartoris, Ex-Senator and Mrs. Quay and Ex-Secretary and Mrs. John W. Foster, Among Those Invited. Some of the Messages of Tribute.

Washington, Oct. 24.-Funeral services over the remains of the Hon. John Sherman occur here this afternoon at his late residence in K street. Rev. Mackey Smith, of St. John's Episcopal church, is to officiate.

Representatives of the Loyal legion, of which organization the secretary was a member, and of the Sons of the American Revolution will be present at the services. Special invitations to attend the services were extended to the following friends in addition to those to whom personal and general invitations had been issued: Grant and Mrs. Sartoris, ex-Senator and Mrs. John B. Henderson, Mrs. Robert Anderson and the Misses Anderson, Mrs. Audenreid, Mrs. Edward Parker Wood, Mr. and Mrs. John Sherman, ex-Senator and Mrs. Quay and ex-Secretary and Mrs. John W. Foster.

The train bearing the remains and the members of the family and friends accompanying them is expected to arrive at Mansfield at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning. The services in the church there will be held at 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

Senator Hawley is unable to be present at the services here to act as pallbearer, and Justice A. B. Hagner, of the district supreme court, will take his place.

The body of the secretary was placed in a heavy plain black covered casket with silver handles. A silver plate on the top bears the simple inscription:

The following resolutions adopted at a meeting of citizens of Ohio at present in Washington:

"John Sherman. May 10, 1823. Oct.

The citizens of Ohio, at present in the national capital, in meeting assembled to take action upon the death of Sherman, do resolve:

"That we have learned with profound regret of the death of the patriot and statesman, John Sherman, and that we sympathize with our fellow citizens of the union in this national bereavement, and share in the universal sorrow which his death occasions. "That his eminent public services, in both houses of congress and in the cabinet, extending over a period of nearly half a century, comprising more than half his life, and rendered under exigencies which involved in the highest degree the welfare of the nation. have been such as to entitle him to its in one deal, but what deal it was not gratitude.

"That the success of the Union arms during the War of the Rebellion was due in a large measure to his unflinching courage, unswerving loyalty and undying efforts in the support and creation of legislation necessary to the support of the citizen soldiers who were engaged in the great struggle for national unity.

"That in the resumption of specie payments, January 1, 1879, under the most trying circumstances and opposition, is found the most marvelous achievement of the financial world and the crowning effort of his life.

"That we extend to the family of the deceased statesman our sincere condolence and sympathy, and may the memory of his patriotism and heroic struggle for the right abide with us forevermore."

The following telegrams of condolence were received at the Sherman

M. A. Hanna: "Please accept for the sorrowing friends of Mr. Sherman this assurance of my most sincere sympathy in the loss suffered by the termimation of a noble and useful life.'

John D. Long, secretary of the navy: will you let me express my sincere sympathy with you in the loss of your father? His long and faithful service to the country was of inestimable value, and he won the admiration and respect of the people. History will write his name among the great statesmen of the United States.'

Murat Halstead: "My sympathy extends to all the family. I deeply feel the loss of a personal friend of 40

R. A. Alger, former secretary of war: "Mrs. Alger joins me in deepest sympathy for you in your great sorrow.'

Second Assistant Secretary of State Alvey A. Adee has been chosen to represent the department of state at Mans field on the occasion of the funeral of the late John Sherman. He will accompany the remains from Washington to Mansfield, as will Mr. E. J. Babcock, one time private secretay to the de-

Representative Charles Dick, of Ohio: "Acecot my deep sympathy in the death of your distinguished father. Ohio mourns the loss of a great and good man.

Count de Quadt, the German charge d'affaires: "Count de Quadt begs to convey on this occasion the expression of his deepest sympathy to Mrs. Mc-Callum, and feels sure that the whole nation will feel the great loss the country has sustained by the death of the Hon, John Sherman, whose great capacities and the services he rendered to his country were appreciated all over the world."

From Santiago de Cuba: "To the President of the Senate at Washington-The newspapers of free and independent Cuba deplore the death of the fllustrious Sherman, defender of the independence of Cuba."

A BANK CLERK STOLE $700,000.

Believed He Lost It In Stock Speenlation-Fled From New York.

New York, Oct. 24.-The First National bank is the victim of a defalcation of $700,000. C. L. Alvord, note teller in the bank, is the absconder. He has been missing for a week.

Alvord has been in the employ of the bank for many years. He had the confidence of George Baker, the president, their late illustrious fellow citizen, John and all the officials. The loss in money is hardly disturbing the bank, which is one of the strongest in the city. The deposits amount to $35,000,000.

> Alvord has a wife and three children. His home was at Mt. Vernon. His habits were good. It is believed that he lost the money in stock speculation. No one else is under suspicion.

> In a statement issued by the bank telling of the defalcation it was said in part: "It is expected that the shortage will be materially reduced by a substantial sum, of which there is fair prospect of recovery.

One story is that Alvord lost $75,000 It has been during the summer Alvord visited Saratoga, where he cut a great figure, spending money like a prince. He rented a cottage, kept a fine stable of horses and besides playing the races is said to have frequented gambling houses.

FORGER LEWIS DEAD.

The Banker, Who Startled the Financial World In 1895, Dies In Ohio.

West Union, O., Oct. 24.-Z. T. Lewis, the former Urbana banker and noted bond forger, died in this county last night. Lewis startled the financial world in 1895, when his famous bond forgery was discovered. Banks purchased forged bonds from him and loaned him money, taking forged bonds for collateral. Lewis escaped, but was captured in Detroit. The total amount of his forgeries was never known, but they amounted to more than $100,000.

The greatest mystery surrorunding the crime was the use to which the forger put the money. Lewis was convicted and was pardoned when it was seen that he could only live a few years on account of lung trouble.

Victim of Aristocratic Fiends at Paterson, N. J.

DIED AFTER BEING DRUGGED.

Terrible Crime Committed-Her Body Taken to Lonely Place, After a Physician Pronounced Her Dead-Four of the Men Under Arrest Prominent.

New York, Oct. 24.—Developments thow that the circumstances surrounding the death of Miss Jennie Bosschieter, of Paterson, N. J., form a fearfully revolting crime. The police have the five prisoners more or less concerned in the affair in custody. From statements and confessions it is bearned that shortly after 8 o'clock Monday evening Miss Bosschieter entered and near it met Andrew Campbell. There was a short conversation, and then the pair walked down Main street. Somewhere en route they were joined by George Kerr, Walter McAlister and William Death. The four entered Chester Salles' saloon. Here drinks were served. Finally one of the men telephoned to the Erie depot for a cab cabman has been the main source of the polices' information, and has given a detailed story of what occurred.

It was in the neighborhood of 10 o'clock when the four men lifted the partly conscious girl into Schulthors' rig. They had administered knockout drops to the girl. The men directed the driver to take them to a roadhouse, but they found the place closed and repeated rappings produced no response. The party then started back toward the city.

In a lonely spot the hack was stopped and the girl lifted out of it. One of the four was not guilty of the crime. The hackman claims that he did not leave his seat on the cab. He is unable to say whether the girl was alive or dead when she was lifted back into the cab. He remembers that he was told to drive down beside the river bank. Here the girl's apparently lifeless body was lifted out of the cab and head and face bathed with river water. After a long time spent in trying to revive her the men held a consultation. Their victim was again lifted into the cab and the hackman was ordered to drive like mad to Dr. Wiley's house. Dr. Wiley was not at home. and the party hurried to the residence of Dr. Townsend. The physician was aroused. He felt of the girl's pulse and said the girl was dead. Twice he told them. They drove off and came back. The doctor was offered any amount of money if he would try to save her life, but he persisted it was useless, as death had come long before. The carriage then drove away. It was finally resolved to drive out to Bergen county McAlister caught the girl by the feet and dragged them outward. Another of the men lifted the shoulders and as the hips reached the sill Mc-Alister dropped the feet and the two men held the body upright for a moment and then let go. The girl's body fell backward, the head striking the rocks, which crushed the skull. This circumstance, which threw the Bergen county authorities off the scent, was not foreseen by the men disposing of the body. The hackman received $10 for his night's work. This was paid by McAlister.

Walter C. McAlister is a member of the firm of McAlister & Co., silk throwsters. George Kerr is a member of the J. P. Donleavy Paint company. Andrew Campbell is a bookkeeper employed at the Hand street silk mill. William A. Death is a young man who was married five weeks ago. Mrs. Death's friends are endeavoring to conceal the story of the details of her husband's arrest, and she is convinced that a mistake has been made. The men implicated in the crime were held without bail after a bearing before Recorder Senior. Judgge Kerr, brother of one of the prisoners, is married to a sister of Mayor Hinchcliffe. the millionaire brewer of Paterson. He is also a relative of John Johnson, the Democratic nominee for congress in the Paterson district. The funeral of the girl was held here It was claimed at Paterson last night that the affair is only one of a series of crimes in which some girls of that vicinity have been victims but it is the first case known in which any girl has lost her life.

FOUR BLOCKS WERE BURNED.

Loss In Port Limon Fully $1,000.000. Two Thousand People Homeless

Mobile, Ala., Oct. 24.—Details of the Port Limon fire reached here from Inspector Cherry, of the Mobile quarantine board. The fire began at 2 o'clock ing, died of his injuries.

on the monring of Oct. 14, and raged for more than eight hours, completely destroying four blocks of buildings and partly destroying two other blocks.

The property loss is estimated at $1,500,000 in gold, and about 2,000 natives are homeless.

BRYAN VISITS BALTIMORE.

Large Crowds Heard Him Speak-Talked In Other Maryland Towns and In Washington.

Baltimore, Oct. 24.—Hon. William Jennings Bryan, the Democratic presidential candidate, spoke at Rockville, Frederick, Bruceville, Union Bridge, New Windsor, Westminster, Glyndon and in this city last evening. The Rockville meeting was the only one of the day that was not marred by rain. On account of the downpour most of the meetings were cut short, but the crowds in each case remained until Mr. Bryan had concluded his remarks.

It was raining gently but steadily when the special train bearing the Kent's drug store at Paterson Democratic presidential candidate pulled into Union station in this city an hour late, but this did not prevent the assemblage of a crowd of fully 10,000 people about the depot. A parade was formed and Mr. Bryan drove at its head to the Hotel Rennert, where he dined with several Democratic leaders, including former United States Senator Arthur P. Gorham, Governor Walter and August Schulthors responded. This John Smith and Mayor Hayes, of this

> Mr. Bryan's first speech was made on the platform erected outside Music hall, and the plaza surrounding the stand was crowded as far back as Mr. Bryan's voice could possibly be heard. He then spoke inside the hall.

Before coming to Maryland Mr. Bryan spoke to a small crowd that gathered in the depot at Washington.

OVATIONS TO ROOSEVELT.

Spoke to Big Crowds In His Own State. His Yoice Very Clear and He Was In Good Condition.

Norwich, N. Y., Oct. 24.-Governor Roosevelt finished the second day of his New York state campaign in Norwich, speaking to a large audience. He traveled 159 miles and made 14 speeches, and yet he finished his day's work in splendid shape, his voice at the night meeting being very clear.

The entire trip was an ovation, the crowds in comparison to the population of the places being especially large. The three largest places stopped at were Stamford, where he spoke in a hall; Oneonta, where he addressed a large out of door meeting, and at Bloomville.

Mrs. Bryan and Daughter Visiting.

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 24.-Mrs. W. I. Bryan is enjoying a visit to New Haven as the guest of Mrs. Philo S. Bennett, of 137 Wall street, a friend of several years' standing. Mrs. Bryan is accompanied by her daughter.

In a statement issued by the bank telling of the defalcation it was said in part: "It is expected that the shortage will be materially reduced by a substantial sum, of which there is fair prospect of recovery.

One story is that Alvord lost $75,000 during the summer Alvord visited Saratoga, where he cut a great figure, spending money like a prince. He rented a cottage, kept a fine stable of horses and besides playing the races is said to have frequented gambling

FORGER LEWIS DEAD.

The Banker, Who Startled the Financial World In 1895, Dies In Ohio.

West Union, O., Oct. 24.-Z. T. Lewis, the former Urbana banker and noted bond forger, died in this county last night. Lewis startled the financial world in 1895, when his famous bond forgery was discovered. Banks purchased forged bonds from him and loaned him money, taking forged bonds for collateral. Lewis escaped, but was captured in Detroit. The total amount of his forgeries was never known, but they amounted to more than $100,000.

The greatest mystery surrorunding the crime was the use to which the forger put the money. Lewis was convicted and was pardoned when it was seen that he could only live a few years on account of lung trouble.

Services Over Remains of Sherman, In Washington.

TOMORROW AT MANSFILLD, O.

Mrs. Grant, Mrs. Sartoris, Ex-Senator and Mrs. Quay and Ex-Secretary and Mrs. John W. Foster, Among Those Invited. Some of the Messages of Tribute.

Washington, Oct. 24.-Funeral services over the remains of the Hon. John Sherman occur here this afternoon at his late residence in K street. Rev. Mackey Smith, of St. John's Episcopal church, is to officiate.

Representatives of the Loyal legion. of which organization the secretary was a member, and of the Sons of the American Revolution will be present at the services. Special invitations to attend the services were extended to the following friends in addition to those to whom personal and general invitations had been issued: Mrs. Grant and Mrs. Sartoris, ex-Senator and Mrs. John B. Henderson, Mrs. Robert Anderson and the Misses Anderson, Mrs. Audenreid, Mrs. Edward Parker Wood, Mr. and Mrs. John Sherman, ex-Senator and Mrs. Quay and ex-Secretary and Mrs. John W. Foster.

The train bearing the remains and the members of the family and friends accompanying them is expected to arrive at Mansfield at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning. The services in the church there will be held at 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

Senator Hawley is unable to be present at the services here to act as pallbearer, and Justice A. B. Hagner, of the district supreme court, will take his place.

The body of the secretary was placed in a heavy plain black covered casket with silver handles. A silver plate on the top bears the simple inscription:

The following resolutions were adopted at a meeting of citizens of Ohio at present in Washington: "John Sherman. May 10, 1823. Oct.

The citizens of Ohio, at present in the national capital, in meeting assembled to take action upon the death of their late illustrious fellow citizen, John Sherman, do resolve:

"That we have learned with profound regret of the death of the patriot and statesman, John Sherman, and that we sympathize with our fellow citizens of the union in this national bereavement, and share in the universal sorrow which his death occasions.

"That his eminent public services, in both houses of congress and in the cabinet, extending over a period of nearly half a century, comprising more than half his life, and rendered under exigencies which involved in the highest degree the welfare of the nation, have been such as to entitle him to its lasting gratitude.

due in a large measure to his unflinching courage, unswerving loyalty and undying efforts in the support and creation of legislation necessary to the support of the citizen soldiers who were engaged in the great struggle for mational unity the deceased statesman our sincere condolence and sympathy, and may the memory of his patriotism and heroic struggle for the right abide with us forevermore.

"That in the resumption of specie payments, January 1, 1879, under the most trying circumstances and opposition, is found the most marvelous achievement of the financial world and the crowning effort of his life.

The following telegrams of condo-

M. A. Hanna: "Please accept for the sorrowing friends of Mr. Sherman this the crime was the use to which the assurance of my most sincere sympathy in the loss suffered by the termimation of a noble and useful life."

John D. Long, secretary of the navy: will you let me express my sincere sympathy with you in the loss of your father? His long and faithful service to the country was of inestimable value, and he won the admiration and espect of the people. History will write his name among the great statesmen of the United States.' Murat Halstead: "My sympathy extends to all the family. I deeply feel the loss of a personal friend of 40 years." R. A. Alger, former secretary of war: "Mrs. Alger joins me in deepest sympathy for you in your great sorrow.' Second Assistant Secretary of State Alvey A. Adee has been chosen to represent the department of state at Mansfield on the occasion of the funeral of the late John Sherman. He will accompany the remains from Washington to Mansfield, as will Mr. E. J. Babcock, one time private secretay to the de-

Representative Charles Dick. of Ohio: "Acecut my deep sympathy in the death of your distinguished father. Ohio mourns the loss of a great and good man."

Count de Quadt, the German charge "Count de Quadt begs to convey on this occasion the expression of his deepest sympathy to Mrs. Mc-Callum, and feels sure that the whole nation will feel the great loss the country has sustained by the death of the Hon, John Sherman, whose great capacities and the services he rendered to his country were appreciated all over the world."

From Santiago de Cuba: "To the President of the Senate at Washington-The newspapers of free and independent Cuba deplore the death of the fllustrious Sherman, defender of the Independence of Cuba."

Hon. D. K. Watson's Masterly Analysis of It.

TAKES GOOD PLATFORM PROMISE.

Sammary of Its Provisions - Benefits It Secures to Our Finances - Hamilton's Original Purpose to Base Our System Upon Gold Aloue.

Hon. D. K. Watson, former attorney general of Ohio, and later representing the Columbus district in congress with distinction, by his study of finance, and particularly by his very complete "History of American Coinage," has become a recognized authority upon both the facts and the philosophy of the financial problem. This gives very great value and weight to his contributions upon this subject, such as that he made in the Ohio State Journal recently upon the financial legislation of the last congress, particularly the act of March 14, 1900, with which the Republican party kept its promise to put the money question upon the most stable foundation possible.

He analyzes the law very closely, showing how it not only increases the gold reserve fund, but especially how it preserves the legal tender quality of the silver dollar, increases the circula. tion of silver certificates, and thus indirectly but certainly of silver itself. and increases the national bank circulation, already nearly $90,000,000 more than when the law was passed. He makes plain many features of the law of value and service to the public that are not commonly understood, but should be known more generally because of the benefit it given to the people in general. Mr. Watson takes up this great law section by section. clearly presenting its every detail in a way that would be most desirable to give here if space permitted at all, but a summary must suffice instead.

The bill makes good to the utmost limit possible, under present business circumstances in the world's financial relations and our own country's commercial condition, the Republican party's promise to promote bimetallism so far as practicable.

"There is a provision in the concluding section of that act," says Mr. Watson, "that it is not the intention of congress to prevent international bimetallism at a ratio which would insure the permanence of the relative should be expedient and practicable to secure the same by the aid of the leading commercial nations of the

This is a business handling of a purely business matter, and leaves the way open for taking up the question at any time that the way is open for it in a business way.

Mr. Watson summarizes the most important features of the law, with a statement of their value: "Probably no more important bill relating to the finances of the country has passed congress in recent years than this one. It was intended to enact with certainty and precision the sentiment and feeling of the dominant party in congress and the country on the subject of making gold the standard money in the United States and to place beyond cavil or question the position of the two metals in this country. That it has accomplished these purposes there can be no doubt. Reviewing the bill it was seen that its principal benefits may be summed up as follows: 1. The enactment of the gold dollar of 25.8 grains at the standard money of the United States. 2. The declaration that all forms of mon-States shall be maintained at a parity of value with such standard and mak- faculties for McKinley, 103 for Bryan, ing it the duty of the secretary of the 21 for Woolley and 30 undetermined. treasury to maintain such parity. 3. The increase of the gold reserve fund from $100,000,000 under the old law to $150,000,000 and limiting its use to redeeming the United States notes and treasury notes. 4. The preservation of the legal tender quality of silver and other money coined or issued by the government. 5. The establishment as a part of the treasury department divisions of issue and redemption. 6. The substitution for treasury notes. 7. The limitation of silver certificates hereafter issued to denominations of $10 and under. 8. The exchange of new 2 per cent gold bonds for outstanding bonds bearing a higher rate of interest 9. Changes in the national banking laws: (a) By permitting them to organize with $25,000 capital; (b) by permitting them to issue their notes to the par value of their bonds; (c) by taxing them on their circulation onehalf of 1 per cent.

"More than 100 years ago when, at the request of congress, Alexander Hamilton drafted the first coinage law, he was strongly inclined to urge that gold should be adopted as the standard money of the country, but for special reasons recommended the double standard of gold and silver. From that early time until the passage of this act the 'battle of the standards' has been waged in the United States. with a constantly powerful and growing sentiment in favor of gold, which resulted, after more than a century of experience, in this law."

The settlement of the anthracite coal strike was due to the efforts of the president. He brought his influence to bear upon the operators to secure the acceptance of the demands of the miners' convention. A Washington special to the Cincinnati Commercial Tribune, dated October 16.

"The powerful influence of the president has been brought to bear upon the anthracite coal operators, and in his name another appeal is to be made to have it settled. The president selected Representative Connell, of Scranton, to be the bearer of his advice to the operators.

"The president would like to see the question submitted to arbitration, but he is not particular as to the means employed. His desire is to have the operators and their employees come to a satisfactory understanding. Representative Connel' returned to his home this evening with a perfect understanding of the president's views and desires. These were gained during the course of several talks during the last two or three days. Mr. Connell is a very large operator himself, probably value between the metals whenever it the largest individual operator in the world. His mines are in the Wyoming valley, in Lackawanna county. He has always been able to get along with his miners without trouble, but this time his men are also on strike.

"The president, in his talks with Mr. Connell, is said to have told him that, undoubtedly, he would have great influence with the other operators and also with the men. He asked him to use his strongest efforts to bring about a settlement, either through the acceptance of the conditions prescribed by the miners in their meeting on Saturday night or by submission of all points to a board of arbitration.

"At the White house it was stated that, could he have consistently done so, the president would have, ere this, publicly suggested arbitration.

"The president is a strong believer in arbitration for both domestic and international disputes, and in 1886 he advocated it in a pssech in congress."

COLLEGE PROFESSORS.

Overwhelming is the strength of Mc-Kinley among the college faculties of the country. A poll of 11 of the largest institutions in the middle west, ey issued or coined by the United made by the Chicago Record (Independent) shows 485 members of the Michigan university is not included, but of 2.714 students, 1.785 are known Republicans, and only 681 Democrats. Organized Under the New Jersey Trust Statute - Operates In Several States. Bryan's Weak Defense of Croker's Monopoly.

Havng come to the relief of Jones and his cotton-bale trust, Bryan has also given his friend Croker a boost home in their family carriage. There on the Tammany ice trust, by claim- was no demonstration. The president ing that it is only a local concern. It is local in one way, in that its principal owners are largely members of Tammany Hall, without which Bryan state, will also attend the funeral. It hasn't the ghost of a chance for carry- is probale that the president will give ing New York. Moreover, its Tammany Hall stockholders secured for it valuable concessions and contracts from the city of New York. As a matter of record, however, the American Ice company is an interstate corporation, operating under a New Jersey charter. On page 793, volume 69, of the Commercial and Financial Chronicle, appear the following words, the official authorized statement of this company, in its application to the New York Stock Exchange by its directors, for the listing of $12,440,000 preferred stock, and $22,939,000 com- Blankets mon stock to the dealings of that exchange:

"Incorporated in New Jersey, on March 11, 1899. Plants and their location: Eleven docks, situated in Greater New York; two ice manufactories, situated in Greater New York; plants for housing ice, situated on the Hudson river; four docks, situated in the city of Washington, D. C.; two sales depots; one ice house on the Potomac river; one plant in Prince George county, Md.; three plants for housing ice, situated on the Kennebec river; one plant for housing ice at Boothbay, Me."

Nothing very "local" about that. There was another sense in which it was "local," in that the leading Democrats among its stockholders were Tammany men, as shown by one of the great Democratic newspapers of New York in its attack upon this corporation for its outrageous oppressions and exactions from the poorest people of that metropolis. This paper named from the official list of stockholders the following supporters of Mr. Bryan, most of whom were with him upon the platform at his Madison Square meeting, and in the committee of reception that greeted him, and at the banquet at the Hoffman House at "$12 a plate, exclusive of the wines":

"Mayor Robert A. Van Wyck, $525,-000; Richard Croker, $100,000; Hugh McLaughlin, $30,000; Corporation Counsel Whalen, $50,000; John F. Carroll, $467,000; Augustus Van Wyck, writer of the anti-trust plank of the Democratic platform, $175,000; F. A. Croker, $3,000; E. D. Croker, $3,500; L. J. Croker, $1,000; E. R. Carroll, $10,000. At the Chicago trust confer ence, Sept. 16, 1899 Mr. Bryan said:

"I want to start with the declaration that a monopoly in private hands is indefensible from any standpoint, and intelerable. I make no exceptions to the rule.' Now let Mr. Bryan denounce the Democratic ice trust."

BRYAN AND CROKER.

Tammany Boss Promised the New York Federal Patronage.

Croker's predominance in Bryan's New York visit makes very pertinent the New York World's remark that "the prospect of a Crokerized government is a deadly weight which no enthusiasm for Mr. Bryan can overcome." The World says this in speaking of Comptroller Coler being shut out of the Democratic nomination for governor of New York by Tammany, and adds: "There is not an honest, intelligent Democrat in the city or state who does not know that Coler was rejected by Croker because as comptroller he has stood in the way of political jobs and of public plunder."

There the oldest and strongest Democratic paper of the Empire state, in its condemnation of Croker, condemns Bryan, who has surrendered to Croker under pledge, never yet denied, to permit the Tammany boss to control the federal patronage of New York state. as well as city, even to the selection of the Empire state representative in Bryan's cabinet, should the latter be- shoe store.

come president. Bryanism is bad enough, but it cannot be had in this campaign without Crokerism, for that is the price it must pay for party support in the city and state of New York. To this these New York World quotations testify.

Hon. D. K. Watson's Masterly Analysis of It.

TAKES GOOD PLATFORM PROMISE.

Sammary of Its Provisions - Benefits It Secures to Our Finances - Hamilton's Original Purpose to Base Our System Upon Gold Aloue.

Hon. D. K. Watson, former attorney the Columbus district in congress with distinction, by his study of finance. and particularly by his very complete "History of American Coinage," has become a recognized authority upon both the facts and the philosophy of the financial problem. This gives very great value and weight to his contributions upon this subject, such as that he made in the Ohio State Journal recently upon the financial legislation of ENDING THE STRIKE. the last congress, particularly the act of March 14, 1900, with which tue Republican party kept its promise to put the money question upon the most stable foundation possible.

He analyzes the law very closely, showing how it not only increases the gold reserve fund, but especially how it preserves the legal tender quality of the silver dollar, increases the circula. tion of silver certificates, and thus indirectly but certainly of silver itself. and increases the national bank circulation, already nearly $90,000,000 more than when the law was passed. He makes plain many features of the law of value and service to the public that are not commonly understood, but should be known more generally because of the benefit it given to the people in general. Mr. Watson takes up this great law section by section. clearly presenting its every detail in a way that would be most desirable to give here if space permitted at all, but a summary must suffice instead.

The bill makes good to the utmost limit possible, under present business circumstances in the world's financial relations and our own country's commercial condition, the Republican party's promise to promote bimetallism so far as practicable.

"There is a provision in the concluding section of that act," says Mr. Watson, "that it is not the intention of congress to prevent international bimetallism at a ratio which would insure the permanence of the relative value between the metals whenever it should be expedient and practicable to secure the same by the aid of the leading commercial nations of the world."

This is a business handling of a purely business matter, and leaves the way open for taking up the question at any time that the way is open for it in a business way.

Mr. Watson summarizes the most important features of the law, with a statement of their value:

"Probably no more important bill relating to the finances of the country has passed congress in recent years than this one. It was intended to enact with certainty and precision the sentiment and feeling of the dominant party in congress and the country on the subject of makig gold the standard money in the United States and to place beyond cavil or question the position of the two metals in this country. That it has accomplished these purposes there can be no doubt. Reviewing the bill it was seen that its principal benefits may be summed up as follows: 1. The enactment of the gold dollar of 25.8 grains a. the standard money of the United States. 2. The declaration that all forms of money issued or coined by the United States shall be maintained at a parity of value with such standard and making it the duty of the secretary of the treasury to maintain such parity. 3. The increase of the gold reserve fund from $100,000,000 under the old law to $150,000,000 and limiting its use to redeeming the United States notes and treasury notes. 4. The preservation of the legal tender quality of silver and other money coined or issued by the government. 5. The establishment as a part of the treasury department divisions of issue and redemption. 6. The substitution for treasury notes. 7. The limitation of silver certificates hereafter issued to denominations of $10 and under. 8. The exchange of new 2 per cent gold bonds for outstanding bonds bearing a higher rate of interest. 9. Changes in the national banking laws: (a) By permitting them to organize with $25,000 capital; (b) by permitting them to issue their notes to the par value of their bonds; (c) by taxing them on their circulation onehalf of 1 per cent.

"More than 100 years ago when, at the request of congress, Alexander Hamilton drafted the first coinage law, he was strongly inclined to urge that gold should be adopted as the standard general of Ohio, and later representing money of the country, but for special reasons recommended the double standard of gold and silver. From that early time until the passage of this act the 'battle of the standards' has been waged in the United States, with a constantly powerful and growing sentiment in favor of gold, which resulted, after more than a century of experience, in this law."

PRESIDENT M'KINLEY'S INFLUENC WON MINERS' BATTLE.

He Urged the Operators to Agree to the Terms Proposed by the Anthracite Miners In Convention-Success of His Efforts.

The settlement of the anthracite coal strike was due to the efforts of the president. He brought his influence to bear upon the operators to secure the acceptance of the demands of the miners' convention. A Washington special to the Cincinnati Commercial Tribune, dated October 16,

"The powerful influence of the president has been brought to bear upon the anthracite coal operators, and in his name another appeal is to be made to have it settled. The president selected Representative Connell, of Scranton, to be the bearer of his advice to the operators.

"The president would like to see the question submitted to arbitration, but he is not particular as to the means employed. His desire is to have the operators and their employees come to a satisfactory understanding. Representative Connel' returned to his home this evening with a perfect understanding of the president's views and desires. These were gained during the course of several talks during the last two or three days. Mr. Connell is a very large operator himself, probably the largest individual operator in the world. His mines are in the Wyoming valley, in Lackawanna county. He as always been able to get along his miners without trouble, but this time his men are also on strike.

"The president, in his talks with Mr. Connell, is said to have told him that, undoubtedly, he would have great influence with the other operators and also with the men. He asked him to use his strongest efforts to bring about a settlement, either through the acceptance of the conditions prescribed by the miners in their meeting on Saturday night or by submission of all points to a board of arbitration.

"At the White house it was stated that, could he have consistently done so, the president would have, ere this, publicly suggested arbitration.

"The president is a strong believer in arbitration for both domestic and international disputes, and in 1886 he advocated it in a pssech in congress."

COLLEGE PROFESSORS.

Overwhelming is the strength of Mc-Kinley among the college faculties of the country. A poll of 11 of the largest institutions in the middle west, made by the Chicago Record (Independent) shows 485 members of the faculties for McKinley, 103 for Bryan, 21 for Woolley and 30 undetermined. Michigan university is not included, but of 2.714 students, 1.785 are known Republicans, and only 681 Democrats. The Boston Journal has been taking a similar census in the east, with like results, showing that our educational leaders thoroughly recognize the weakness and danger in Bryan.

In 1896 the people voted for prosperity and got it. Are they now silly enough to vote against it by supportissuing of silver certificates and their ing Bryan?

TAMMANY ICE

HISTORY OF THE ODIOUS TRUST IN NEW YORK CITY.

Organized Under the New Jersey Trust Statute - Operates In Several States. Bryan's Weak Defense of Croker's Monopoly.

Havng come to the relief of Jones and his cotton-bale trust, Bryan has also given his friend Croker a boost on the Tammany ice trust, by claiming that it is only a local concern. It is local in one way, in that its principal owners are largely members of Tammany Hall, without which Bryan state, will also attend the funeral. It hasn't the ghost of a chance for carry- is probale that the president will give ing New York. Moreover, its Tammany Hall stockholders secured for it valuable concessions and contracts from the city of New York. As a matter of record, however, the American Ice company is an interstate corporation, operating under a New Jersey charter. On page 793, volume 69, of the Commercial and Financial Chronicle, appear the following words, the official authorized statement of this company, in its application to the New York Stock Exchange by its directors, for the listing of $12,440,000 preferred stock, and $22,939,000 common stock to the dealings of that exchange:

"Incorporated in New Jersey, on March 11, 1899. Plants and their location: Eleven docks, situated in Greater New York; two ice manufactories, situated in Greater New York; plants for housing ice, situated on the Hudson river; four docks, situated in the city of Washington, D. C.; two sales depots; one ice house on the Potomac river; one plant in Prince George county, Md.; three plants for housing ice, situated on the Kennebec river; one plant for housing ice at Boothbay, Me."

Nothing very "local" about that. There was another sense in which it was "local," in that the leading Democrats among its stockholders were Tammany men, as shown by one of the great Democratic newspapers of New York in its attack upon this corporation for its outrageous oppressions and exactions from the poorest people of that metropolis. This paper named from the official list of stockholders the following supporters of Mr. Bryan, most of whom were with him upon the platform at his Madison Square meeting, and in the committee of reception that greeted him, and at the banquet at the Hoffman House at "$12 a plate, exclusive of the wines":

"Mayor Robert A. Van Wyck, $525,-000; Richard Croker, $100,000; Hugh McLaughlin, $30,000; Corporation Counsel Whalen, $50,000; John F. Carroll, $467,000; Augustus Van Wyck, writer of the anti-trust plank of the Democratic platform, $175,000; F. A. Croker, $3,000; E. D. Croker, $3,500; L. J. Croker, $1,000; E. R. Carroll, $10,000. At the Chicago trust confer ence, Sept. 16, 1899 Mr. Bryan said:

"I want to start with the declaration that a monopoly in private hands is indefensible from any standpoint, ard intelerable. I make no exceptions to the rule.' Now let Mr. Bryan denounce the Democratic ice trust."

BRYAN AND CROKER.

Tammany Boss Promised the New York Federal Patronage.

Croker's predominance in Bryan's New York visit makes very pertinent the New York World's remark that "the prospect of a Crokerized government is a deadly weight which no enthusiasm for Mr. Bryan can overcome." The World says this in speaking of Comptroller Coler being shut out of the Democratic nomination for governor of New York by Tammany, and adds: "There is not an honest, intelligent Democrat in the city or state who does not know that Coler was rejected by Croker because as comptroller he has stood in the way of political jobs and of public plunder."

There the oldest and strongest Democratic paper of the Empire state, in its condemnation of Croker, condemns Bryan, who has surrendered to Croker under pledge, never yet denied, to permit the Tammany boss to control the federal patronage of New York state, as well as city, even to the selection of the Empire state representative in Bryan's cabinet, should the latter be- shoe store.

come president. Bryanism is bad enough, but it cannot be had in this campaign without Crokerism, for that is the price it must pay for party support in the city and state of New York. To this these New York World quotations testify.

DISGUSTING DEMAGOGY.

Not soon will the American people forget their disgust at the deep down demagogy of Bryan's repeated remark that "the Republican party wants a standing army so that they can build a fort near every large city and use content that ought to be cured by rem edial legislation." There is not an American city with a fort or military station near it whose citizens would consent to its removal, for purely business and social reasons and there is scarcely a city without such a military station but has asked for one, and that by all the people of all parties, without ever a thought in the mind of anyone such as Bryan has invented and foisted upon them. It is more disgraceful to him for his insulting insinuation, without foundation, than to

PRESIDENT HADLEY'S REMARK.

"This country settled the question of imperialism when it began to build battleships instead of coast defense vessels" is the way President Hadley of Yale expressed a truth fundamental in American affairs. All Yale cheered when he added: "I would rather have imperialism under such men as Hay and Root than under any men I know in the Democratic party. I am only a humble individual, but will cast my vote for William McKinley."

SENATOR STEWART'S VIEW.

"I followed Mr. Bryan four years ago, but I do not propose to follow him into treason against the flag and the constitution it represents. Mr. Bryan proposes to surrender to Aguinaldo." These sentences from a speech by Senator Stewart, of Nevada, in Chicago the other night, express the sentiment of multitudes of American citizens. Mr. Stewart said he heard the same speeches in 1864, when it was said that the war was a failure and that the only way to secure peace was to treat with the rebels, and now as then, he urges every American to stand dead in bed. Heart disease is supby law and order, and vote for the posed to have caused death. She was continuance of prosperity by support- 80 years old ing William McKinley.

Rather Intemperate Buying Considerably Curtailed Uneasiness Over Money Market.

New York, Oct. 24.-The warning contained in Monday's flurry in the call money rate to 6 per cent was taken to heart by the speculative element Tuesday, and the rather intemperate buying which has flooded the market since the latter part of last week was materially curtailed. There was a great deal of business done in the first hour, but the selling to realize clearly outweighed the buying demand, in spite of some sharp manipulative advances in a few specialties and the average level of prices went below Monday night. During the day a much-heralded upward movement in Northern Pacific came into notice. There had been rumors several days of a bull pool. The price was 541/2 when the advance began, and it carried the quotation up through some very heavy selling without material setback to a shade over 58, making the net gain 25%. Great Northern preferred was advanced 5 points correlatively. There was a noticeable disinclination in the rest of the market to respond to this movement, and the recovabout 2:30 o'clock Railroad Detectives eries were quite insignificant. The fall Moore and Bear discovered a box tied in the call loan rate to 21/2 per cent in the last half hour was equally without effect in reawakening speculative interest, and the market closed irregular at The box was tied with a piece of small net changes. Banks called loans to the extent of several million dollars Tuesday morning, and the shifting of loans which resulted caused quite an some fresh uneasiness over the money market conditions, and these were not altogether allayed by the renewed weakness of exchange, especially Paris cheques. The transfer of currency to New Orleans through the sub-treasury was also renewed Tuesday. The detectives took the body to the doubt exists regarding the effectiveness of high call loan rates in renewing gold imports. The gold thus far secured was the result of scouring the open market supplies all over Europe without arousing the opposition of the great central banking institutions, which would have to be resorted to for any considerable gold supply. Borrowers of time money show a disinclination to pay as much as 5 per cent, while bankers have counted upon a good market for time loans at 6 per cent. Whether they will be inclined to import gold under the circumstances to meet the exigencies of speculation is a mooted ques-

Altoona, Pa., Oct. 24.-Field workers consumed the entire two first sessions of the state Sabbath school convention here. The general secretary, Dr. Chas. Roads, of Philadelphia, presided. Over 60 county district presidents attended. The house-to-house visitation work aroused the greatest interest. It was shown that in Altoona there were only 2 per cent of non-churchgoers. In Philadeplia there are 5 per cent. Other places where the religious census has been taken were correspondingly low. Special stress was laid upon the importance of pastors and Sunday school workers following up this information.

Rev. H. C. Bomberger, superintendent of the normal department and state workers, told of the remarkable success of the teachers' training institute in Philadelphia.

The field workers' latest plans and experience were discussed.

PIECE LARGE ROPE

To the Trucks of a Freight Train Which Arrived at Wellsville This Morning.

THERE IS ABSOLUTELY NO CLUE

This morning when fast freight No. 88 pulled into the Wellsville shops about 2:30 o'clock Railroad Detectives Moore and Bear discovered a box tied to the trucks of the second car from the caboose.

The box was tied with a piece of rope and the detectives cut the rope and took the box into the Twelth street station, where it was opened and the body of a still born baby boy found neatly tucked inside.

The box was an ordinary shoe box and bore the stamp of Fetterman & Co., large shoe manufacturers of Cleveland.

The detectives took the body to the office of Dr. Rex, where it was examined. It was then buried.

None of the crew of the freight have any idea where the box was tied to the trucks, and it could have been put on at Cleveland or at any place where the train stopped.

The box was not soiled and had no marks to show that it had been with the train for any distance.

There is absolutely no clue.

DISGUSTING DEMAGOGY.

Not soon will the American people forget their disgust at the deep down demagogy of Bryan's repeated remark that "the Republican party wants a standing army so that they can build a fort near every large city and use the army to suppress by force the discontent that ought to be cured by rem edial legislation." There is not an American city with a fort or military station near it whose citizens would consent to its removal, for purely business and social reasons and there is scarcely a city without such a military station but has asked for one, and last Saturday. The robbery was acthat by all the people of all parties, without ever a thought in the mind of anyone such as Bryan has invented and foisted upon them. It is more disgraceful to him for his insulting insinuation, without foundation, than to

PRESIDENT HADLEY'S REMARK.

"This country settled the question of imperialism when it began to build battleships instead of coast defense vessels" is the way President Hadley of Yale expressed a truth fundamental in American affairs. All Yale cheered when he added: "I would rather have imperialism under such men as Hay and Root than under any men I know in the Democratic party. I am only a humble individual, but will cast my vote for William McKinley."

SENATOR STEWART'S VIEW.

"I followed Mr. Bryan four years ago, but I do not propose to follow him into treason against the flag and the constitution it represents. Mr. Bryan proposes to surrender to Aguinaldo." These sentences from a speech by Senator Stewart, of Nevada, in Chicago the other night, express the sentiment of multitudes of American citizens. Mr. Stewart said he heard the same speeches in 1864, when it was said that the war was a failure and that the only way to secure peace was to treat with the rebels, and now as then, he urges every American to stand dead in bed. Heart disease is supby law and order, and vote for the posed to have caused death. She was continuance of prosperity by support- 90 years old ing William McKinley.

Rather Intemperate Buying Considered ably Curtailed Uneasiness Over Money Market.

New York, Oct. 24.-The warning contained in Monday's flurry in the call money rate to 6 per cent was taken to heart by the speculative element Tuesday, and the rather intemperate buying which has flooded the market since the latter part of last week was materially curtailed. There was a great deal of business done in the first hour, but the selling to realize clearly outweighed the buying demand, in spite of some sharp manipulative advances in a few specialties and the average level of prices went below Monday night. During the day a much-heralded upward movement in Northern Pacific came into notice. There had been rumors several days of a bull pool. The price was 541/2 when the advance began, and it carried the quotation up through some very heavy selling without material setback to a shade over 58, making the net gain 2%. Great Northern preferred was advanced 5 points correlatively. There was a noticeable disinclination in the rest of the market to respond to this movement, and the recoveries were quite insignificant. The fall in the call loan rate to 21/2 per cent in the last half hour was equally without effect in reawakening speculative interest, and the market closed irregular at small net changes. Banks called loans to the extent of several million dollars Tuesday morning, and the shifting of loans which resulted caused quite an active bidding for money. The events of the day had the effect of awakening some fresh uneasiness over the money market conditions, and these were not altogether allayed by the renewed weakness of exchange, especially Paris cheques. The transfer of currency to New Orleans through the sub-treasury was also renewed Tuesday. Much doubt exists regarding the effectiveness of high call loan rates in renewing gold imports. The gold thus far secured was the result of scouring the open market supplies all over Europe without arousing the opposition of the great central banking institutions, which would have to be resorted to for any considerable gold supply. Borrowers of time money show a disinclination to pay as much as 5 per cent. while bankers have counted upon a good market for time loans at 6 per cent. Whether they will be inclined to import gold under the circumstances to meet the exigencies of speculation is a mooted ques-

Pottsville, Pa., Oct. 24.—President Mitchell, in a speech here, said that he believed that in a few days all the op erators will have posted noticees guaranteeing the 10 per cent increase. He also added that he believe that by Monday at the latest all the men will have returned to work and will have won everything they struck for.

Wilkesbarre, Oct. 24.—The Lehigh and Wilkesbarre Coal and Delaware and Hundson Coal companies posted notices offering the strikers a full 10 per cent increase in wages. This offer meets the demands of President Mitchell, and it is thought the strike will be called off within the next 36 hours.

Scranton, Pa., Oct. 24.-The Delaware, Lackawanna and Western and the Delaware and Hudson, the Hillside Coal and Iron (the Erie) and the Lehigh and Wilkesbarre Coal companies, through their general superintendents, agreed upon an additional notice as to the 10 per cent increase. The same will be posted at once and will help to settle the great coal strike speedily.

Altoona, Pa., Oct. 24.-Field workers consumed the entire two first sessions of the state Sabbath school convention here. The general secretary, Dr. Chas. Roads, of Philadelphia, presided. Over 60 county district presidents attended. The house-to-house visitation work aroused the greatest interest. It was shown that in Altoona there were only 2 per cent of non-churchgoers. In Philadeplia there are 5 per cent. Other places where the religious census has been taken were correspondingly low. Special stress was laid upon the importance of pastors and Sunday school workers following up this information.

Rev. H. C. Bomberger, superintendent of the normal department and state workers, told of the remarkable success of the teachers' training institute in Philadelphia.

The field workers' latest plans and experience were discussed. Four big junior and primary rallies were held in various city churches. Last night the opening session of the convention proper was held. H. J. Heinz, of Pittsburg, presided.

The church was packed. The special music was in charge of Rev. E. O. Excell, of Chicago. Rev. O. C. Roth welcomed the delegates, and Rev. George S. Chambers, of Harrisburg, state vice president, responded. Hon. John Wanamaker, the state president, delivered his anual address.

THE MARTYR

The Man Who, Under God, Saved This Great and Grand Republic

AND STAMPED OUT SLAVERY

We Know That, If Living Today, He Would Be an Ardent Advocate

OF M'KINLEY AND ROOSEVELT

If it were possible for the original of this picture to speak to the voters of the nation this day, and to give his honest verdict respecting William Jennings Bryan and Adlai Stevenson, the editor of the News Review believes he would say about the following:

"William Jennings Bryan embodies in his person and actions and sayings all of the evil and disloyal characteristics of Clement L. Vallandingham, whom I was compelled, by a strict sense of justice, to send through the lines to his southern friends and coworkers; and the same sense of just tice would compel me, were I on earth today and in possession of the requisite power, to send Bryan to the Philippines and compel him to join Aguinaldo and his host of assassins and cutthroats, more familiarly known as bolo men.

"As for Adlai Stevenson, a former member of the Knights of the Golden Circle, an organization despised by all true men and soldiers, from northland or from southland, he is simply an object of contempt, a fit running mate for the demagogue and traitor he is associated with. I would not disgrace the party of Stephen A. Douglass by terming this delectable couple as Democrats; they are simply freaks of fortune, forced upon the nation, as curses some times are. They will pass away as do the mists and be as soon forgotten, none being so poor as to desire to do them honor.

"If permitted to live, McKinley and Roosevelt will be elected by a strong electoral majority on the 6th day of November, 1900. I beg the great republic's pardon for mentioning these latter heroes and statesmen in the same breath with such creatures as Bryan and Stevenson.

"I am very glad to note the wonderful strides, in the way of progress and prosperity, that the nation over which I once held sway, by the grace of the common people, has made. If true to the right, and obedient to the will of the Great Commander, the United States, now in her swaddling clothes, a mere babe, is destined to take her place as the leader in the world's civilization and salvation."

Governor Bob Taylor, of Tennessee, Captured His Hearers And Held Them With Him.

The opening night of the series of the high school entertainments was a flattering success from every standpoint. An immense audience was present, the seating capacity being unequal to the demand. Bob Taylor made a mistake in the time and was half an hour late. Prof. Rayman introduced him in a neat little speech, stating that "Mr. Taylor has made a mistake respecting our time, and has not been able to don his dress suit. He believes that you will not care particularly about his dress, as you will be more interested in his address."

We shall not attempt to give a description in full of this entertainment. As Governor Bob Taylor said: "It was sentiment and fiddle and bow mixed." The word painting of the garden of Eden, as existing before sin entered, was simply exquisite. Later on in the mixed talk, pathos and fun, laughter and tears followed so closely upon one another's footsteps as to keep the audience closely attentive, in order that the happy hits should not escape appreciation. The old colored nurse's lullaby was a gem of the first water, while the delineation of the old plantation darkey's escapades, 'possum hunts and hoedowns was rich and true to nature. The apostrophe to the violin and fiddle were beauties deduced from Governor Bob's heart, as he is a great lover and admirer of this class of melody, and no mean performer on the instrument in question. The advice of the speaker as to the love and care which should be exthe true home, with a full share for the patient and loving wife and mother, found an echo in the heart of every genuine man and woman in the audience. Governor Bob Taylor, of Tennessee, in this beautiful southland of the great and glorious republic, is a brick; yea, verily, a whole brick block; and he made a host of friends and admirers in this pottery center through the instrumentality of his superb word painting. #### COON HUNTERS.

Two Well Known Attorneys Are Deeply in Love With Coon Hunting.

One of the said disciples of Blackstone resides in the classic shades of the town of Rogers, while the other is a rising young limb of the law of East Liverpool. To hear them describe a coon hunt, and judge the same from their standpoint, you would fall deeply in love with the fun and avail yourself of the first opportunity to take a jaunt over hill and dale in the light of the moon, accompanied by the "very best coon dogs that ever gave mouth," covering about "steen" miles in pursuit of the "corn robber," keeping up the chase until the wee, small hours of the morning, tumbling over fallen trees, stumps, boulders and other hindrances, and occasionally taking a header into an unseen cavern or miniature valley, winding up the fun by having the happiness of seeing a plump, fat coon tumble out of a tall tree, shaken from his perch by the most daring climber in the party, while the eager dogs played havoc with his coonship as he did royal battle for his life, finally succumbing to superior numbers and weight. And then you would go home, after your initiatory hunt, about the most tired, sore and hungry hunter in all that neck of woods, vowing vengeance, deep and bitter, on the fellows who had induced you to indulge in such "infernal nonsense;" and, after getting fully rested and the soreness having disappeared, you would finally consent to another hunt, catch the "coon fever," and soon become as crazy on the subject as are the two limbs of the law above designated, but not named.

The Rogers limb of the law had a circus all to himself not long since, on one of his coon hunting expeditions. He had his brother's good coat on at the time; but he had the fever on him in full force, and could not keep away from the enchantment. In some unexpected manner he struck a skunk instead of a coon, received a full benefit in the shape of eu de cologne and otter of roses, and that best coat had to be buried in Mother Earth for three months, and afterward blow

We should not aid the election of a president who would, admittedly, if he could, destroy the gold standard and other things that we value even more, upon the deceptive suggestion that he has been bound, and that the Republican party will, after defeat, still have strength enough to save the temple. It will be much better not to allow the man with destructive tendencies to lean against its pillars."

Woman's Horror

Modest women dread to consult a doctor about diseases peculiar to their sex. They have a horror of private examinations and surgical operations. For this reason treatment of dangerous derangements is neglected. But the Wine of Cardui treatment, which can be adopted at home without the knowledge of any one but the patient herself, is now coming into general use. Women who take Wine of Cardui do not have to submit to a physician's local examination nor to a surgical operation. Wine of Cardui cures in the privacy of the home. No publicity, no cutting and torture and no physician or examination, while Wine of Cardui is quietly building up and strengthening the female organs. Menstruation is regulated, the drains of leucorrhæa stopped and the fallen womb restored to its place. The medicine that cured Miss Garlen win tainly help you.

I have suffered from womb trouble for five years. Last spring a year ago I was bedfast for six months. I paid $52 to one doctor, and he said he had done all he could for me. I had about given up, but called another doctor, who said I would have to have surgical treatment. I decided I might as well die a natural death as that. I happened to get nine days after I commenced taking Wine of Cardui and Black-Draught I could walk across my room, and in three weeks I made myself a dress. OUR LANDSLIDE. Every day is adding to the strength of the Republican cause and correspondingly weakening the chances of Bryan. We do not say the chances of the Democratic party," as there is a multitude of Democrats who will vote for McKinley and honest money, as they did four years ago, on strictly business principles, deeming prosperity, with McKinley, far more to be de sired than Bryan, with commercial dis aster. Bryan is injuring his cause whenever and wherever he appears and speaks. He is aware of the fact that he is a badly defeated man, and he accepts the knowledge with exceedingly bad grace. He is not a courageous or brave man. On the contrary, he is sadly lacking in that muchto-be-desired article known by the street gamin and cowboy as sand, and he evinced the lack very plainly when he accepted a colonel's coma fact which should brand him as an arrant coward all over the civilized world. He gave evidence of this yellow streak in his makeup on his last presidential campaign when he visited East Liverpool, an imp ase crowd and about five out of every seven in this great mass wearing a yellow ribbon, indicative of the fact that they were believers in a good yellow gold

Services Over Remains of Sherman, In Washington.

TOMORROW AT MANSFIELD, O.

Mrs. Grant, Mrs. Sartoris, Ex-Senator and Mrs. Quay and Ex-Secretary and Mrs. John W. Foster, Among Those Invited. | Some of the Messages of Tribute.

Washington, Oct. 24.-Funeral services over the remains of the Hon. John Sherman occur here this afternoon at his late residence in K street. Rev. Mackey Smith, of St. John's Episcopal church, is to officiate.

Representatives of the Loyal legion, of which organization the secretary was a member, and of the Sons of the American Revolution will be present at the services. Special invitations to attend the services were extended to the following friends in addition to those to whom personal and general invitations had been issued: Grant and Mrs. Sartoris, ex-Senator and Mrs. John B. Henderson, Mrs. Robert Anderson and the Misses Anderson, Mrs. Audenreid, Mrs. Edward Parker Wood, Mr. and Mrs. John Sherman, ex-Senator and Mrs. Quay and ex-Secretary and Mrs. John W. Foster.

The train bearing the remains and the members of the family and friends accompanying them is expected to arrive at Mansfield at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning. The services in the church there will be held at 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

Senator Hawley is unable to be present at the services here to act as pallbearer, and Justice A. B. Hagner, of the district supreme court, will take

The body of the secretary was placed in a heavy plain black covered casket with silver handles. A silver plate on the top bears the simple inscription:

The following resolutions adopted at a meeting of citizens of Ohio at present in Washington:

"John Sherman. May 10, 1823. Oct. 22, 1900."

"The citizens of Ohio, at present in the national capital, in meeting assembled to take action upon the death of their late illustrious fellow citizen, John Sherman, do resolve:

"That we have learned with profound regret of the death of the patriot and statesman, John Sherman, and that we sympathize with our fellow citizens of the union in this national bereavement, and share in the universal sorrow which his death occasions.

"That his eminent public services, In both houses of congress and in the cabinet, extending over a period of nearly half a century, comprising more than half his life, and rendered under exigencies which involved in the highest degree the welfare of the nation, have been such as to entitle him to its lasting gratitude.

during the War of the Rebellion was due in a large measure to his unflinching courage, unswerving loyalty and undying efforts in the support and creation of legislation necessary to the support of the citizen soldiers who were engaged in the great struggle for national unity. "That in the resumption of specie payments, January 1, 1879, under the most trying circumstances and opposition, is found the most marvelous achievement of the financial world and the crowning effort of his life.

"That we extend to the family of the deceased statesman our sincere condolence and sympathy, and may the memory of his patriotism and heroic struggle for the right abide with us forevermore.

The following telegrams of condolence were received at the Sherman home:

M. A. Hanna: "Please accept for the sorrowing friends of Mr. Sherman this assurance of my most sincere sympathy in the loss suffered by the termimation of a noble and useful life.'

John D. Long, secretary of the navy: www you let me express my sincere sympathy with you in the loss of your father? His long and faithful service to the country was of inestimable value, and he won the admiration and respect of the people. History will write his name among the great statesmen of the United States.

Murat Halstead: "My sympathy extends to all the family. I deeply feel the loss of a personal friend of 40 years." R. A. Alger, former secretary of war: "Mrs. Alger joins me in deepest sympathy for you in your great sorrow.'

Second Assistant Secretary of State Alvey A. Adee has been chosen to represent the department of state at Mansfield on the occasion of the funeral of the late John Sherman. He will accompany the remains from Washington to Mansfield, as will Mr. E. J. Babcock, one time private secretay to the de-

Representative Charles Dick, of Ohio: "Acecot my deep sympathy in the death of your distinguished father. Ohio mourns the loss of a great and good man."

Count de Quadt, the German charge d'affaires: "Count de Quadt begs to convey on this occasion the expression of his deepest sympathy to Mrs. Mc-Callum, and feels sure that the whole nation will feel the great loss the country has sustained by the death of the Hon. John Sherman, whose great capacities and the services he rendered to his country were appreciated all over the world."

From Santiago de Cuba: "To the President of the Senate at Washington-The newspapers of free and independent Cuba deplore the death of the Illustrious Sherman, defender of the Independence of Cuba."

A BANK CLERK STOLE $700,000.

Believed He Lost It In Stock Speenlation-Fled From New York.

New York, Oct. 24.-The First National bank is the victim of a defalcation of $700,000. C. L. Alvord, note teller in the bank, is the absconder. He has been missing for a week.

Alvord has been in the employ of the bank for many years. He had the confidence of George Baker, the president, and all the officials. The loss in money is hardly disturbing the bank, which is one of the strongest in the city. The deposits amount to $35,000,000.

Alvord has a wife and three children. His home was at Mt. Vernon. His habits were good. It is believed that he lost the money in stock speculation. No one else is under suspicion.

In a statement issued by the bank telling of the defalcation it was said in part: "It is expected that the shortage will be materially reduced by a substantial sum, of which there is fair prospect of recovery.

One story is that Alvord lost $75,000 in one deal, but what deal it was not stated. It has been discovered that lyord e summer atoga, where he cut a great figure spending money like a prince. He rented a cottage, kept a fine stable of horses and besides playing the races is said to have frequented gambling houses.

FORGER LEWIS DEAD.

The Banker, Who Startled the Financial World In 1895, Dies In Ohio.

West Union, O., Oct. 24 .- Z. T. Lewis, the former Urbana banker and noted bond forger, died in this county last night. Lewis startled the financial world in 1895, when his famous bond forgery was discovered. Banks purchased forged bonds from him and loaned him money, taking forged bonds for collateral. Lewis escaped, but was captured in Detroit. The total amount of his forgeries was never known, but they amounted to more than $100,000.

The greatest mystery surrorunding the crime was the use to which the forger put the money. Lewis was convicted and was pardoned when it was seen that he could only live a few years on account of lung trouble.

DIED AFTER BEING DRUGGED.

Terrible Crime Committed-Her Body Taken to Lonely Place, After a Physieian Pronounced Her Dead-Four of the Men Under Arrest Prominent.

New York, Oct. 24.-Developments thow that the circumstances surrounding the death of Miss Jennie Bosschieter, of Paterson, N. J., form a fearfully revolting crime. The police have the five prisoners more or less concerned in the affair in custody. From statements and confessions it is barned that shortly after 8 o'clock Monday evening Miss Bosschieter entered and near it met Andrew Campbell. then the pair walked down Main street. Somewhere en route they were joined by George Kerr, Walter McAlister and William Death. The four entered Chester Salles' saloon. Here drinks were served. Finally one of the men telephoned to the Erie depot for a cab. and August Schulthors responded. This cabman has been the main source of the polices' information, and has given a detailed story of what occurred.

It was in the neighborhood of 10 o'clock when the four men lifted the partly conscious girl into Schulthors' rig. They had administered knockout drops to the girl. The men directed the driver to take them to a roadhouse, but they found the place closed and repeated rappings produced no response. The party then started back toward

In a lonely spot the hack was stopped and the girl lifted out of it. One of the four was not guilty of the crime. The backman claims that he did not leave his seat on the cab. He is unable to say whether the girl was alive or dead when she was lifted back into the cab. He remembers that he was told to drive down beside the river bank. Here the girl's apparently lifeless body was lifted out of the cab and head and face bathed with river water. After a long time spent in trying to revive her the men held a consultation. Their victim was again lifted into the cab and the hackman was ordered to drive like mad to Dr. Wiley's house. Dr. Wiley was not at home, and the party hurried to the residence of Dr. Townsend. The physician was aroused. He felt of the girl's pulse and said the girl was dead. Twice he told them. They drove off and came back. The doctor was offered any amount of money if he would try to save her life, but he persisted it was useless, as death had come long before. The carriage then drove away. It was finally resolved to drive out to Bergen

McAlister caught the girl by the feet and dragged them outward. Another of the men lifted the shoulders and as the hips reached the sill Mc-Alister dropped the feet and the two men held the body upright for a moment and then let go. The girl's body fell backward, the head striking the rocks, which crushed the skull. This circumstance, which threw the Bergen county authorities off the scent, was not foreseen by the men disposing of the body. The hackman received $10 mistaken by strikers for a non-union for his night's work. This was paid by McAlister. Walter C. McAlister is a member of the firm of McAlister & Co., silk throwsters. George Kerr is a member of the J. P. Donleavy Paint company. Andrew Campbell is a bookkeeper employed at the Hand street silk mill. William A. Death is a young man who was married five weeks ago. #### BRYAN VISITS BALTIMORE.

Large Crowds Heard Him Speak-Talked In Other Maryland Towns and In Washington.

Baltimore, Oct. 24.-Hon. William Jennings Bryan, the Democratic presidential candidate, spoke at Rockville, Frederick, Bruceville, Union Bridge, New Windsor, Westminster, Glyndon and in this city last evening. The Rockville meeting was the only one of the day that was not marred by rain. On account of the downpour most of the meetings were cut short, but the crowds in each case remained until Mr. Bryan had concluded his remarks.

It was raining gently but steadily when the special train bearing the Kent's drug store at Paterson Democratic presidential candidate pulled into Union station in this city an There was a short conversation, and hour late, but this did not prevent the assemblage of a crowd of fully 10,000 people about the depot. A parade was formed and Mr. Bryan drove at its head to the Hotel Rennert, where he dined with several Democratic leaders. including former United States Senator Arthur P. Gorham, Governor Walter John Smith and Mayor Hayes, of this

> Mr. Bryan's first speech was made on the platform erected outside Music hall, and the plaza surrounding the stand was crowded as far back as Mr. Bryan's voice could possibly be heard. He then spoke inside the hall.

Before coming to Maryland Mr. Bryan spoke to a small crowd that gathered in the depot at Washington.

OVATIONS TO ROOSEVELT.

Spoke to Big Crowds In His Own State. His Yoice Very Clear and He Was In Good Condition.

Norwich, N. Y., Oct. 24.-Governor Roosevelt finished the second day of his New York state campaign in Norwich, speaking to a large audience. He traveled 159 miles and made 14 speeches, and yet he finished his day's work in splendid shape, his voice at the night meeting being very clear.

The entire trip was an ovation, the crowds in comparison to the population of the places being especially large. The three largest places stopped at were Stamford, where he spoke in a hall; Oneonta, where he addressed a large out of door meeting, and at Bloomville.

Mrs. Bryan and Daughter Visiting.

Hon. D. K. Watson's Masterly Analysis of It.

TAKES GOOD PLATFORM PROMISE.

sammary of Its Provisions - Benefits It Secures to Our Finances - Hamilton's Original Purpose to Base Our System Upon Gold Aloue.

Hon. D. K. Watson, former attorney general of Ohio, and later representing the Columbus district in congress with distinction, by his study of finance. and particularly by his very complete "History of American Coinage," has become a recognized authority upon both the facts and the philosophy of the financial problem. This gives very great value and weight to his contributions upon this subject, such as that he made in the Ohio State Journal recently upon the financial legislation of the last congress, particularly the act of March 14, 1900, with which the Republican party kept its promise to put the money question upon the most stable foundation possible.

He analyzes the law very closely, showing how it not only increases the gold reserve fund, but especially how it preserves the legal tender quality of the silver dollar, increases the circula. tion of silver certificates, and thus indirectly but certainly of silver itself. and increases the national bank circulation, already nearly $90,000,000 more than when the law was passed. He makes plain many features of the law of value and service to the public that are not commonly understood, but should be known more generally because of the benefit it given to the people in general. Mr. Watson takes up this great law section by section. clearly presenting its every detail in a way that would be most desirable to give here if space permitted at all, but a summary must suffice instead.

The bill makes good to the utmost limit possible, under present business circumstances in the world's financial relations and our own country's commercial condition, the Republican party's promise to promote bimetallism so far as practicable.

"There is a provision in the concluding section of that act," says Mr. Watson, "that it is not the intention of congress to prevent international bimetallism at a ratio which would insure the permanence of the relative value between the metals whenever it should be expedient and practicable to secure the same by the aid of the leading commercial nations of the world."

This is a business handling of a purely business matter, and leaves the way open for taking up the question at any time that the way is open for it in a business way.

Mr. Watson summarizes the most important features of the law, with a statement of their value:

"Probably no more important bill relating to the finances of the country has passed congress in recent years than this one. It was intended to enact with certainty and precision the sentiment and feeling of the dominant party in congress and the country on the subject of makig gold the standard money in the United States and to place beyond cavil or question the position of the two metals in this country. That it has accomplished these purposes there can be no doubt. Reviewing the bill it was seen that its principal benefits may be summed up as follows: 1. The enactment of the gold dollar of 25.8 grains a. the standard money of the United States. 2. The declaration that all forms of money issued or coined by the United States shall be maintained at a parity of value with such standard and making it the duty of the secretary of the treasury to maintain such parity. 3. The increase of the gold reserve fund from $100,000,000 under the old law to $150,000,000 and limiting its use to redeeming the United States notes and treasury notes. 4. The preservation of the legal tender quality of silver and other money coined or issued by the government. 5. The establishment as a part of the treasury department divisions of issue and redemption. 6. The substitution for treasury notes. 7. The limitation of silver certificates hereafter issued to denominations of $10 and under. 8. The exchange of new 2 per cent gold bonds for outstanding bonds bearing a higher rate of interest. 9. Changes in the national banking laws: (a) By permitting them to organize with $25,000 capital; (b) by permitting them to issue their notes to the par value of their bonds; (c) by taxing them on their circulation onehalf of 1 per cent.

"More than 100 years ago when, at the request of congress, Alexander Hamilton drafted the first coinage law, he was strongly inclined to urge that gold should be adopted as the standard money of the country, but for special reasons recommended the double standard of gold and silver. From that early time until the passage of this act the 'battle of the standards' has been waged in the United States. with a constantly powerful and growing sentiment in favor of gold, which resulted, after more than a century of experience, in this law."

ENDING THE STRIKE.

PRESIDENT M'KINLEY'S INFLUENCE WON MINERS' BATTLE.

He Urged the Operators to Agree to the Terms Proposed by the Anthracite Miners In Convention-Success of His Efforts.

The settlement of the anthracite coal strike was due to the efforts of the president. He brought his influence to bear upon the operators to secure the acceptance of the demands of the miners' convention. A Washington special to the Cincinnati Commercial Tribune, dated October 16,

"The powerful influence of the president has been brought to bear upon the anthracite coal operators, and in his name another appeal is to be made to have it settled. The president selected Representative Connell, of Scranton, to be the bearer of his advice to the operators.

"The president would like to see the question submitted to arbitration, but he is not particular as to the means employed. His desire is to have the operators and their employees come to a satisfactory understanding. Representative Connell returned to his home this evening with a perfect understanding of the president's views and desires. These were gained during the course of several talks during the last two or three days. Mr. Connell is a very large operator himself, probably the largest individual operator in the world. His mines are in the Wyoming valley, in Lackawanna county. He has always been able to get along with his miners without trouble, but this time his men are also on strike.

"The president, in his talks with Mr. Connell, is said to have told him that, undoubtedly, he would have great influence with the other operators and also with the men. He asked him to use his strongest efforts to bring about a settlement, either through the acceptance of the conditions prescribed by the miners in their meeting on Saturday night or by submission of all points to a board of arbitration.

"At the White house it was stated that, could he have consistently done so, the president would have, ere this, publicly suggested arbitration.

"The president is a strong believer in arbitration for both domestic and international disputes, and in 1886 he advocated it in a pssech in congress."

COLLEGE PROFESSORS.

Overwhelming is the strength of Mc-Kinley among the college faculties of the country. A poll of 11 of the largest institutions in the middle west, made by the Chicago Record (Independent) shows 485 members of the faculties for McKinley, 103 for Bryan, 21 for Woolley and 30 undetermined. Michigan university is not included, but of 2,714 students, 1,785 are known Republicans, and only 681 Democrats. The Boston Journal has been taking a similar census in the east, with like results, showing that our educational leaders thoroughly recognize the weakness and danger in Bryan.

In 1896 the people voted for prosperity and got it. Are they now silly enough to vote against it by supportissuing of silver certificates and their ing Bryan?

TAMMANY ICE

HISTORY OF THE ODIOUS TRUST IN NEW YORK CITY.

Organized Under the New Jersey Trust Statute - Operates In Several States. Bryan's Weak Defense of Croker's Monopoly.

Havng come to the relief of Jones and his cotton-bale trust, Bryan has also given his friend Croker a boost on the Tammany ice trust, by claiming that it is only a local concern. It is local in one way, in that its principal owners are largely members of hasn't the ghost of a chance for carrying New York. Moreover, its Tammany Hall stockholders secured for it valuable concessions and contracts from the city of New York. As a matter of record, however, the American Ice company is an interstate corporation, operating under a New Jersey charter. On page 793, volume 69, of the Commercial and Financial Chronicle, appear the following words, the official authorized statement of this company, in its application to the New York Stock Exchange by its directors, for the listing of $12,440,000 preferred stock, and $22,939,000 com- Blankets mon stock to the dealings of that ex-

"Incorporated in New Jersey, on March 11, 1899. Plants and their location: Eleven docks, situated in Greater New York; two ice manufactories, situated in Greater New York; plants for housing ice, situated on the Hudson river; four docks, situated in the city of Washington, D. C.; two sales depots; one ice house on the Potomac river; one plant in Prince George county, Md.; three plants for housing ice, situated on the Kennebec river; one plant for housing ice at Boothbay, Me."

Nothing very "local" about that. There was another sense in which it was "local," in that the leading Democrats among its stockholders were Tammany men, as shown by one of the great Democratic newspapers of New York in its attack upon this corporation for its outrageous oppressions and exactions from the poorest people of that metropolis. This paper named from the official list of stockholders the following supporters of Mr. Bryan, most of whom were with him upon the platform at his Madison Square meeting, and in the committee of reception that greeted him, and at the banquet at the Hoffman House at '$12 a plate, exclusive of the wines":

"Mayor Robert A. Van Wyck, $525,-000; Richard Croker, $100,000; Hugh McLaughlin, $30,000; Corporation Counsel Whalen, $50,000; John F. Carroll, $467,000; Augustus Van Wyck, writer of the anti-trust plank of the Democratic platform, $175,000; F. A. Croker, $3,000; E. D. Croker, $3,500; L. J. Croker, $1,000; E. R. Carroll, $10,000. At the Chicago trust confer ence, Sept. 16, 1899 Mr. Bryan said:

"I want to start with the declaration that a monopoly in private hands is 'ndefensible from any standpoint, ard intelerable. I make no exceptions to the rule.' Now let Mr. Bryan denounce the Democratic ice trust."

BRYAN AND CROKER.

Tammany Boss Promised the New York Federal Patronage.

Croker's predominance in Bryan's New York visit makes very pertinent the New York World's remark that "the prospect of a Crokerized government is a deadly weight which no enthusiasm for Mr. Bryan can overcome.' The World says this in speaking of Comptroller Coler being shut out of the Democratic nomination for governor of New York by Tammany, and adds: "There is not an honest, intelligent Democrat in the city or state who does not know that Coler was rejected by Croker because as comptroller he has stood in the way of political jobs and of public plunder."

There the oldest and strongest Democratic paper of the Empire state, in its condemnation of Croker, condemns Bryan, who has surrendered to Croker under pledge, never yet denied, to permit the Tammany boss to control the federal patronage of New York state, as well as city, even to the selection of the Empire state representative in Bryan's cabinet, should the latter become president. Bryanism is bad enough, but it cannot be had in this campaign without Crokerism, for that is the price it must pay for party support in the city and state of New York. To this these New York World quotations testify.

PIECE LARGE ROPE

To the Trucks of a Freight Train Which Arrived at Wellsville This Morning.

THERE IS ABSOLUTELY NO CLUE

This morning when fast freight No. 88 pulled into the Wellsville shops about 2:30 o'clock Railroad Detectives to the trucks of the second car from the caboose.

The box was tied with a piece of rope and the detectives cut the rope and took the box into the Twelth street station, where it was opened active bidding for money. The events and the body of a still born baby boy found neatly tucked inside.

The box was an ordinary shoe box and bore the stamp of Fetterman & Co., large shoe manufacturers Cleveland.

The detectives took the body to the office of Dr. Rex, where it was examined. It was then buried.

None of the crew of the freight have any idea where the box was tied to the trucks, and it could have been put on at Cleveland or at any place where the train stopped.

The box was not soiled and had no marks to show that it had been with the train for any distance.

There is absolutely no clue.

DISGUSTING DEMAGOGY.

Not soon will the American people forget their disgust at the deep down demagogy of Bryan's repeated remark that "the Republican party wants a standing army so that they can build a fort near every large city and use the army to suppress by force the discontent that ought to be cured by rem edial legislation." There is not an American city with a fort or military station near it whose citizens would highwaymen in the borough limits of consent to its removal, for purely bus iness and social reasons and there is scarcely a city without such a military station but has asked for one, and that by all the people of all parties, without ever a thought in the mind of anyone such as Bryan has invented and foisted upon them. It is more disgraceful to him for his insulting insinuation, without foundation, than to

PRESIDENT HADLEY'S REMARK.

This country settled the question of imperialism when it began to build battleships instead of coast defense vessels" is the way President Hadley of Yale expressed a truth fundamental in American affairs. All Yale cheered when he added: "I would rather have imperialism under such men as Hay and Root than under any men I know in the Democratic party. I am only a humble individual, but will cast my vote for William McKinley."

SENATOR STEWART'S VIEW.

"I followed Mr. Bryan four years ago, but I do not propose to follow him into treason against the flag and the constitution it represents. Mr. Bryan proposes to surrender to Aguinaldo." These sentences from a speech by Senator Stewart, of Nevada, in Chicago the other night, express the sentiment of multitudes of American citizens. Mr. Stewart said he heard the same speeches in 1864, when it was peror William. said that the war was a failure and that the only way to secure peace was to treat with the rebels, and now as Shields of 7 Shaffers alley, was found then, he urges every American to stand dead in bed. ### A DAY IN WALL STREET.

Rather Intemperate Buying Considerably Curtailed Uneasiness Over Money Market.

New York, Oct. 24.—The warning contained in Monday's flurry in the call money rate to 6 per cent was taken to day, and the rather intemperate buying which has flooded the market since the latter part of last week was materially curtailed. There was a great deal of business done in the first hour, but the selling to realize clearly outweighed the buying demand, in spite of some sharp manipulative advances in a few specialties and the average level of prices went below Monday night. During the day a much-heralded upward movement in Northern Pacific came into notice. There had been rumors several days of a bull pool. The price was 541/2 when the advance began, and it carried the quotation up through some very heavy selling without material setback to a shade over 58, making the net gain 25%. Great Northern preferred was advanced 5 points correlatively. There was a noticeable disinclination in the rest of the market to respond to this movement, and the recoveries were quite insignificant. The fall Moore and Bear discovered a box tied in the call loan rate to 21/2 per cent in the last half hour was equally without effect in reawakening speculative interest, and the market closed irregular at small net changes. Banks called loans to the extent of several million dollars Tuesday morning, and the shifting of loans which resulted caused quite an of the day had the effect of awakening some fresh uneasiness over the money market conditions, and these were not altogether allayed by the renewed weakness of exchange, especially Paris cheques. The transfer of currency to New Orleans through the sub-treasury was also renewed Tuesday. Much doubt exists regarding the effectiveness of high call loan rates in renewing gold imports. The gold thus far secured was the result of scouring the open market supplies all over Europe without arousing the opposition of the great central banking institutions, which would have to be resorted to for any considerable gold supply. Borrowers of time money show a disinclination to pay as much as 5 per cent, while bankers have counted upon a good market for time loans at 6 per cent. Whether they will be inclined to import gold under the circumstances to meet the exigencies of speculation is a mooted ques-

MANY CHURCHGOERS.

Reports to Pennsylvania Sunday School Convention Showed Small Proportions Who Stayed Away.

Altoona, Pa., Oct. 24.-Field workers consumed the entire two first sessions of the state Sabbath school convention here. The general secretary, Dr. Chas. Roads, of Philadelphia, presided. Over 60 county district presidents attended. The house-to-house visitation work aroused the greatest interest. It was shown that in Altoona there were only 2 per cent of non-churchgoers. In Philadeplia there are 5 per cent. Other places where the religious census has been taken were correspondingly low. Special stress was laid upon the importance of pastors and Sunday school workers following up this information.

Rev. H. C. Bomberger, superintendent of the normal department and state workers, told of the remarkable success of the teachers' training institute in Philadelphia.

The field workers' latest plans and experience were discussed. Four big junior and primary rallies were held in various city churches. Last night the opening session of the convention proper was held. H. J. Heinz, of Pittsburg, presided.

The church was packed. The special music was in charge of Rev. E. O. Excell, of Chicago. Rev. O. C. Roth welcomed the delegates, and Rev. George S. Chambers, of Harrisburg, state vice president, responded. Hon. John Wanamaker, the state president, delivered his anual address.
